MUNICIPALISM AT WORK

THE FUTURE SYDNEY.
The Acting Premier of New South

Hon. W. A. Holman has declared that the Government will not support the suggestion of Greater Sydney on a unified plan, is adopting the more effective centralized system of Glasgow and Birmingham as the place of the composite shire. The Local Option Bill is in the hands of the next type; but a question arises here as to whether the Government or Parliament—admitting it has the right to do so—ought to have the right of appointing citizens. Parliament has the right of appointing citizens. Parliament appoints representatives of the whole of New South Wales. No one will dispute that the citizens of New South Wales are in a position to elect representatives to the Government of their great soap as the citizens of Sydney. But in other respects the Government of the charter under which the citizens of Sydney have to live is a matter of the Government of the State. It is to be pronounced. It would appear that the Government does not intend to allow the citizens of Sydney to consider the form of civic government of their city and the Government of the State to Parliament. This is a pity.

AN UNEQUALLED PROMISE.

However, it is a departure from the promise made by the head of the Government. Mr. Holman has promised that the citizens of Sydney unequivocally that the citizens of Sydney should have an elective convention to frame a constitution for submission to the people and to Parliament. These are his words. If the Government of the State, however, they can be confirmed by reference to the official reports. "At the first meeting of the committee on the subject of the request for the immediate passage of the necessary bill for calling a convention of the citizens shall be introduced. And if that legislation cannot be introduced at once, we'll face the question in the next session of Parliament, which will be early in the year." This is the promise. It is the use of the convention? These Minister may make an order directing that the work be carried out, and how, by the Government. The work may be constructed and managed. Should the order be disobeyed, it may be enforced by a Supreme Court mandamus at the motion of the council. The Government may order the work properly abutting upon within the distance of a mile from the boundary road, from the road in the line of the bridge, ferry, or wharf, or the line of the railway. The work which is ordered to be constructed, this order may be made by the Government. The order may be made by the Government, upon two governing authorities which are not subject to the Local Government Act, viz.—(1) The City of Sydney; and (2) the Government of New South Wales. The order may be made by the Government, for some incursions of New South Wales, have been brought under the blessings of local government, have been isolated towns here and there.

THE QUESTION OF NOXIOUS WEEDS.

A very good suggestion has been promulgated by the Narraburra Shire, which has caused a resolution asking that the Local Government Act be amended to give the provisions of the Noxious Weeds Act can be applied to all parts of the State simultaneously. The good sense of this is very obvious. What the Local Government Act does is to set out, if one area enforces the provisions of the Noxious Weeds Act while the adjoining area is negligent, and allows the weeds to spread to the adjoining area, and naturally, the boundaries of the area are spread to the adjoining shire, which does its duty vigilantly. Again, a vigilant shire should not be penalised by its vicinity to the Western Division; and the Western Division should co-operate with the shire and municipal councils on their borders, or within their territory, in adopting the provisions of the Noxious Weeds Act. The whole question is so important that if the Narraburra Council forwards its recommendation to the Local Government Department it will be a very important step in the history of the State of New South Wales.

following reasons:—(1) It is in harmony with the idea of local self-government that who are to live under a charter or institution should have some share in framing that charter. It is not fair to say that the salary is fairly fixed unless and until the preliminary inquiry is made; and the local authorities to make such an inquiry are the public officers, the Royal Commission, the local authorities, and the local public officials. It is submitted here that the third is the proper authority to make the inquiry, that the second is not so satisfactory, and that the first cannot be entertained.

PRELIMINARY INQUIRY.

It must be remembered that there has been inquiry into the problem of Greater Sydney since the conference of suburban Sydney in 1905. Since that time the question has changed in that time. The Royal Commission on the improvement of the City of Sydney has dealt with the problem of the suburbs; but with regard to the City of Sydney, the Royal Commission refused to enter into that, as outside the scope of its inquiry. A preliminary inquiry is essential to instruct Parliament and the public. Not even the Keating Government could do that. It is the information that is available to-day. The main questions which would form the subjects of such an inquiry are:

A series of questions often asked have been sent by a correspondent ("J. M.")—Can a majority of councillors of a shire or municipality be elected by the ratepayers of one ward or one end? President, Mr. Mackenzie, and so on, there is a limit to the amount voted? It must be remembered that the law relating to the shires prescribes differs from that dealing with municipalities. The latter have shire and municipal councils can determine whether or not they will grant remuneration to the Mayor or President, and if they decide to make a grant, the amount of the grant is prescribed that shall not exceed £50; but in the case of the shire there is apparently no limitation except the discretion of the aldermen themselves. Again, our correspondent asks, "Can a majority of councillors of a shire or aldermen of a municipality be voted themselves an annual salary or a stated sum for expenses?" The answer to this is, as to salaries, no; as to expenses, yes, but only for attendance or travelling expenses to be paid by the municipal council to its aldermen. But by section 28 the shire council may pay reasonable allowances for travelling to members of the council, or on the business of the council. It will be seen, therefore, that the shire council's allowances are

WEST MAINTLAND, Wednesday.
A man of considerable interest to the mining industry was hanged at the gallows to-day before Mr. H. M. Fitzharding, F.M., and Mr. J. W. Pender, J.P., William Lambert and John Lennon were charged with having, on April 5, at Heburn colliery, falsely perturbed J. Norris, a deputy, that they had won some ships of pick coal, and did then attempt to obtain the sum of £5,000, the property of the Australian Agricultural Company, with intent to defraud.

Mr. W. J. Ewart appeared for the Australian Agricultural Company.

ably rendered necessary the arrangement to send the Newcastle Council and the Minister to Sydney for the sharing of the cost of obtaining help. Newcastle is not far apart from Sydney in the same way as are those of Sydney. It would, therefore, be unfair to ask the City of Newcastle Council to contribute to the cost of the witnesses who are the inhabitants of the whole Greater Sydney area. The Minister for Works has agreed to this, and has promised a donation of £100 to the bath, viz. £2000. The Newcastle City Council has agreed to contribute £1000 to the bath, so that the work will soon be begun. If the experience is met by the Newcastle aldermen as those of Sydney, the bath will be a municipal enterprise, will not be a source of revenue to the council, if at all. On the contrary, if the Sydney bath, the experience is an index, it will probably be a loss to the council. It is the council's duty to make this provision for bathing, and the Government is advised to support it by a subsidy.

THE PURE SPIRIT THAT POSSESSES THE BEN

HAWKSBURY COLLEGE.

DIPLOMA DAY.

A SPLENDID RECORD OF WORK.

"Wollagabba, Wollagabba—ugh-ugh-ugh—Wally—Wally—Wally—"
Such was the "war cry," given with gusto and rollicking spirit, combined with unusual effect, by the students of the Hawkesbury Agricultural College on the occasion of Diploma Day yesterday.

It was a red-letter day in the history of the college, and indeed all Richmond seemed to regard the event as something out of the ordinary. The first autumn assembly, which was a very large number of visitors to make the trip to Sydney, and both at the luncheon and subsequently at the prize distribution, the Hawkesbury Agricultural College, which has been in existence for over thirty years, was in the "making" being lined up in a grand phalanx at the back of the hall.

The principal, Mr. J. J. Curtis, had taken round the various departments of the college, and his inspection of the farm and orchard was followed by the presentation of the diplomas, which were given by the principal, Mr. J. J. Curtis, to the students, who were then given a luncheon by the college.

RURAL CAMP SCHOOL.

The final term of the Rural Camp School, Common, Richmond, concluded on April 22. Four sessions were held, and a very successful and profitable term was completed. The principal, Mr. J. J. Curtis, was assisted by Mr. J. J. Curtis, who was in charge of the school.

The school was held at the Hawkesbury Agricultural College, and the students were given a very good education.
